The role of human resources managers is not more limited to service-related functions, such as recruitment and selection of employees. Human resources managers are currently playing an active role in planning the strategy and decision-making in their organization. On this issue, there is a lot of new information that seeks to promote reflection on the administration of human resources in the world of contemporary business and to help the reader understand human resources management questions in a more comprehensive and effective way. Part of this edition is the paintings "Application for a small company, which presents suggestions for policies and human resources that apply to small businesses. Global and international concerns are also discussed in detail. Today, these questions are increasingly considered as "Centrais" in many organizations.
